The Bottle Shop in Cupar

May 15, 2010 in Travel and tour news by Editor

Meet the man in person, Vincent Antonio who own and run the shop

We went golfing at St Andrews last fall and have been passing a small town Cupar many time. What really caught my eyes in the high street was a sign named "Bottle Shop" until on return I decided to stop and find out more.

Not to talk about the collection of wine and whisky they have on display, until the two young Italian lady told me best to talk to their "Pa Pa" for advise. From the very minute we met Vincent, he started talking therefore for hours. Apart from what we saw inside the shop, Vincent carried on bringing his collection from his private cellar. I must admit he has a great knowledge of whisky, but not sure about wine yet but I will find out on my next trip this year.

This is a must for all wine and whisky lover, don't miss it on you next trip to St Andrews. here is the link for Bottle Shop in Cupar

Watch the movie features and you will find out why 2 most and you don't need 3D glasses to see from desert to city, but when you finish your eyes will be very tired. It is definitely worth a visit.

UK unemployment increases to 2.51 million

May 12, 2010 in Art and Education by Producer

Who would like to work?

When receiving good benefits from the government everyweek, really feel sorry to those who work like a donkey and pay high tax, part of which actually supporting those people classed as economically inactive – those out of work and not seeking work. There are lot of more family never had a full time job ever in 10; 20 years, lot more 16 to 24 years old out there are always classed as economically inactive.

If those are this country's future, god help us!
